All pictorial material reproduced herein derives from the voluntary, non-compensated contributions of pictorial or other memorabilia from the private collections of the author, publisher, and the artists interviewed herein, and from select private archives of individual contributors. This material appears here for the sole purpose of illustrating and illuminating the creative processes involved in the making of the motion pictures thus discussed and, where possible, the authors have attempted to accurately acknowledge and credit the owners of such property. However, because of the number of items involved, and perhaps more importantly, the passage of time, mistakes or omissions may occur.

The author and publisher claim no exclusive rights in the underlying artistic works embodied in the images, related indicia, and memorabilia shown in this book, and it is not the publisher's intention to violate any of the rights of these generous contributors, the creators of the items, or the owners of the rights to the films for which this material was created. Referential usage of names, characters, titles, story lines, and related images is not to be construed as a challenge to any copyright or trademark status and whatever underlying copyrights still exist in the photographs, movie stills, posters, props, etc., shown in the book remain the property of their respective owners.

Because the author and publisher believe that publication of this book can only help to increase public awareness and interest in these classic movies, the author and publisher hope that the respective owners of any copyrights of these properties, whether correctly credited or not, will see this book as an attempt to preserve and promote a piece of movie history—a history of which those owners are integral parts.
